Topics in focus: Cooperation with ITA Airways, Strong Network, Industry Solutions and Sustainability

Cooperation with ITA Airways: The commencement of the partnership with ITA Airways will be celebrated at transport logistic. The first ITA Airways flight with cargo booked via Lufthansa Cargo will soon take off, marking the beginning of a new network era. Initial routes from São Paulo, Rio de Janeiro, and Buenos Aires to Rome are just the start. With the conclusion of the latest cooperation between Lufthansa Cargo and ITA Airways, the cargo airline will successively market the Italian airline's belly capacities from mid-June onwards, enabling it to offer its customers an even denser global network. In addition, Rome will join Frankfurt, Munich, Vienna and Brussels as a fifth hub, strengthening Lufthansa Cargo's flexible and reliable transportation options in Southern Europe.

Strong network: Lufthansa Cargo operates the leading network from, to and within Europe. With soon five hubs, the capacities of eight airlines and over 1,000 daily frequencies, cargo customers have the opportunity to send their shipments to more than 350 destinations worldwide. In addition, there is a dense RFS network linking all major economic centers and over 120 RFS stations. In addition, Lufthansa Cargo is continuously optimizing its own freighter network to offer flexible and reliable transport solutions, further enabling global business.

Supporting key global industries: In addition to its dense global network, Lufthansa Cargo also showcases its expertise and specialized air cargo solutions for industries such as automotive, healthcare, semiconductors, and aviation.

Recent enhancements to temperature-controlled transport solutions focus on transport quality, process stability, and customer orientation. These upgrades include:

- Pharma Control Tower: 24/7 monitoring and point of contact for customers with shipments to and from our 30 CEIV-certified stations worldwide
- Thermo Cover: Additional protection against outside temperatures for “Passive Temp Support” shipments, free of charge
- smartULD: Sensors in the containers continuously record temperature data, enabling the creation of a complete temperature profile from delivery to pickup
- td.Zoom: Maximum transport speed combined with “Passive Temp Support” for temperature-sensitive products

Different Lufthansa Cargo experts will be available on each of the four days of the trade fair.

Sustainability at Lufthansa Cargo: Every Action Counts

Global responsibility and sustainable, forward-looking practices are integral to Lufthansa Cargo's mission. Responsibility is taken seriously, with ongoing collaboration with customers, partners, and the scientific community to develop sustainable solutions and achieve the goal of carbon neutrality by 2050.

Bettina Petzold, Head of Corporate Responsibility, will be available in Munich to discuss the commercial value of sustainability, the latest innovations, and ways to reduce carbon footprints with attractive SAF offers.

The largest international leading trade fair, transport logistic, is considered an established meeting point for all players in the logistics and mobility sectors. The simultaneously held air cargo Europe brings together all actors in the air freight industry under one roof. As a leading provider in the air freight sector, Lufthansa Cargo uses this important platform in its home market to present its latest developments and offerings and to directly engage with customers and partners.
